Tuition Grants:

Educators and non-profit organization representatives may apply for a 50% to 60% tuition grant. Tuition grants will be awarded based on written research study proposals. Full-time students incorporating elements of the Kolbe Wisdom™ into academic papers or practicum may submit requests for full-tuition grants. For more information, please contact Nila Pittam at npittam@kolbe.com.

This conference is sponsored by the not-for-profit Center for Conative Abilities. All proceeds go toward its charitable purposes. No refunds after November 1, 2009 except in dire emergencies.

*A late registration fee of $50 will be assigned to all applications received after November 1, 2009

Upon successful completion of the Perfectly Capable Kids program, participants who are Kolbe Certified™ Consultants will be permitted to interpret the Kolbe Y™ Index results, offer advice and coaching to a child and parents of a child, and claim expertise in understanding and interpreting Kolbe Y Index results. Other participants attend Perfectly Capable Kids for their own education and interest, but are not authorized to interpret Kolbe Indexes or claim expertise in using Kolbe products or services. In no case does attending Kolbe Certification or Perfectly Capable Kids permit attendees to:

- Train teachers, parents or others in how to interpret Kolbe Indexes (as opposed to understanding the result for a specific child)
- Develop any materials that claim to explain to others how they can understand or interpret Kolbe Indexes nor develop curriculum that purports to incorporate such tools
- Train teachers, parents or others in how they should change their teaching methods to accommodate or incorporate the use of any of The Center's, Kathy Kolbe's or Kolbe Corp's works into their work with children
- Work with groups larger than 10 at a time to explain specific results (larger groups are only appropriate for explaining the role of conation as one of the three parts of the mind, and the general importance of the role conative talents play for human performance)

I understand that if I miss any portion of this training (including leaving the session early), my status of having successfully completed this training may be in jeopardy.
